SISTER OF HEAD OF HOSPITAL IS GIVEN POSITION

Miss Virginia Murray In Responsible Position In New York

Dixon friends are interested and pleased at the recognition that has been given Miss Virginia Murray of New York City, a sister of Dr. Warren G. Murray, managing officer of the Dixon State Hospital. Miss Murray visits her brother and family in Dixon and has many admiring friends.

Miss Murray has been appointed director of the woman's division of the Bureau of Crime Prevention. She is an expert in the field of social service and will direct 66 police women in their work in New York City. The following newspaper comments tell the story:

New York Herald Tribune—Grover A. Whalen, Police Commissioner, yesterday announced that Miss Virginia Murray, executive secretary of the Travelers Aid Society, has been appointed director of the women's division of the Bureau of Crime Prevention, and will begin her work in that newly established bureau this morning. At the Commissioner's request, Miss Murray received three months' leave of absence and an additional three months' leave will be granted if she deems it necessary.

Miss Murray, who lives at 212 West Forty-eighth Street, is chairman of the adult division of the Welfare Council; chairman of the committee on correction of the National Association of Travelers Aid Societies and recently served as chairman of the committee on correction of the Women's City Club of New York during an investigation of proper care of Negro children undertaken here by the assistance of John D. Rockefeller.

Commissioner Whalen expressed himself as tremendously pleased with the acquisition of Miss Murray for what he believes to be a vitally important department in police activities in New York. She will direct the work of sixty-six police women who will be assigned to the task of encountering young women and tactfully seeking to influence them in a safe and proper course of living when they are found in night clubs, dance halls and similar places in the city.

This work already is in progress after several days of preparation in which the women police operatives have been drilled in the field of their work.

Miss Murray has had extensive experience with police work, having been instrumental in establishing women's divisions for the police departments of Detroit, Cleveland and Atlanta. She entered welfare work after several years as a court reporter at Dayton, Ohio, her first interest in the work developing with assignments in the juvenile court of that city.

Miss Murray believes that the most important duty of women in police employment is to operate, whenever possible, as social workers. She has indicated that her first activity in her new position will be to give the women of her division a thorough grounding in the causes of delinquency and the best means and attitude for the police women who seek to correct it.

New York American—To the popping of flashlights and the grind of motion picture cameras, Miss Virginia Murray yesterday took office as director of the women's division of the Bureau of Crime Prevention.

Miss Murray will direct the work of sixty-six patrolwomen.

Under the supervision of patrolwomen will begin tonight a campaign in dance halls and small movie houses to check juvenile law breaking.

Lent to the Police Department by the Travelers Aid Society, of which she is executive secretary, Miss Murray considers the qualifications of a patrolwoman to consist of two things:

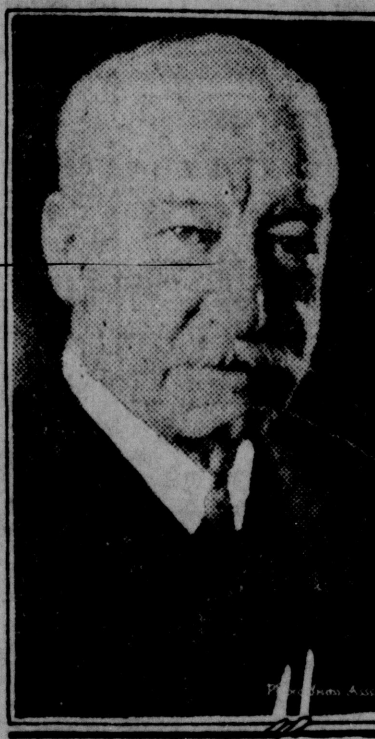

"Good training and good common sense."

Asked if it were not the lack of cheap and wholesome amusement which constituted one of the causes of delinquency and misconduct, Miss Murray answered:

"Yes, of course. We live in too close quarters in this great city. We are cramped and have no place to play. We will get to the bottom of this, however. We will visit the night clubs, dance halls and all the places where youth breaks down in its search for social outlets."

Commissioner Whalen expressed satisfaction at obtaining the services of Miss Murray.

Friend Of Four Presidents Is Dead

ANSLEY WILCOX

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Ansley Wilcox, friend of four Presidents and school mate of Woodrow Wilson, died yesterday. He was 74 years old.

Theodore Roosevelt was a guest in the home of Mr. Wilcox at the time President McKinley was assassinated while attending that Pan-American Exposition in September, 1901. The Vice President donned a coat belonging to Mr. Wilcox, was inducted into office and held his first cabinet meeting in the Wilcox home.

Presidents Grover Cleveland and William Howard Taft also were his friends.

Mr. Wilcox was born in Summerville, now a part of Augusta, Ga., January 27, 1856. He was a graduate of Yale University and studied at Oxford.

He was a prominent lawyer here.

Baby Son Taken From Truhot Home

Theodore LeRoy Truhot, aged two months and 26 days, passed away at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Truhot, 77 Lincoln avenue, shortly after 3 o'clock Sunday morning, death being caused by pneumonia, with which the little one was stricken two weeks ago. Funeral services will be held at the home at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, Rev. B. H. Cleaver officiating and with burial in Oakwood. This is the second infant child Mr. and Mrs. Truhot has lost and they have the sincere sympathy of many friends.

Los Angeles Back In Its Hangar

Lakehurst, N. J., Jan. 27.—(AP)—The naval dirigible Los Angeles was back in its hangar today after a three day flight that took it as far south as St. Augustine, Fla. The ship returned last night.

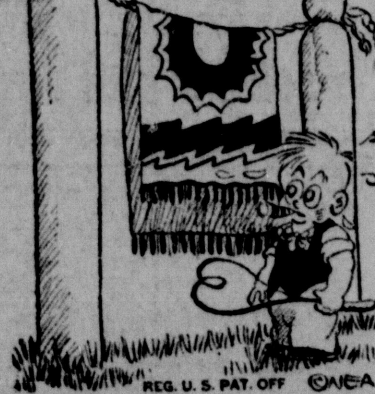

During its flight the dirigible made two landings at Parris Island, S. C., and tested a new mooring mast erected there. While at St. Augustine the radio compass was calibrated.

Lieutenant Commander H. V. Wiley, who commanded the ship, said the flight was "uneventful."

FOUR VESSELS IN DISTRESS ON WILD ATLANTIC

High Winds Over Sea And Along Coast Of France

London, Jan. 27.—(UP)—Four steamers are in distress in the Atlantic, messages to Lloyds from the Land's End Wireless station said today.

The British steamer, Armdale Castle relayed an SOS from another British vessel, the Everleigh, en route to Santos, Brazil, from Barry, Wales.

The position of the Everleigh was given as 25 miles west of Finisterre on the northwestern coast of France. The vessel was badly damaged and out of control, the wireless said.

The Armdale Castle wireless at 6:44 A. M. from a position approximately latitude 42:48 north, longitude 10:30 west but stated no sign of the Everleigh had been found.

A message previously had been relayed by the Armdale Castle from the Italian Listero saying the gear was broken and she was unable to steer. The Listero said she was thus unable to go to the aid of the Everleigh.

The Listero's position was given at 2:45 P. M. Sunday as latitude 42:48, longitude 10:22.

The Italian steamer Camogli was the third steamer reported asking for aid. An SOS was relayed stating the vessel was broken and steering gear damaged. The Camogli's position was given as latitude 42:39 north, longitude 9:40 west.

The Italian vessel Sebeto wireless her hull had been badly damaged and asked for assistance, giving her position as latitude 45:57 north, longitude 7:22 west.

GALES IN FRANCE

Toulouse, France, Jan. 27.—(UP)—Violent winds prevailed over southern France today doing widespread damage.

Numerous SOS messages from steamers off Portugal have been intercepted by the wireless station at Marseilles, including one from the British steamer Everleigh.

The storm uprooted a 300 year old elm tree six feet in circumference in a village near Toulouse. The fallen tree wrecked several houses. It was planted in 1598 by Henry IV's Minister, Sully.

A train was blown from the rails near Albi. Automobiles were blown off the road.

DEATH OF MAIN WITNESS FOR U. S. INVESTIGATED

District Attorney Is Probing Suspicious Case In Okla.

Oklahoma City, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Circumstances surrounding the death of the government's principal witness against 102 officials and residents of Pottawatomie county, on the eve of their trial on charges of participating in a giant conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws, led today to an investigation by Roy St. Lewis, United States District Attorney.

The witness, Marion Fuller, former Chief of Police at Earlboro, Okla., died here Saturday night. He had admitted participation in the alleged "rum rebellion" St. Lewis said, and furnished information on which the government expected to base its case.

Fuller died in an Oklahoma City hospital, his death certificate describing his fatal malady as a liver infection. Members of Fuller's family, the District Attorney said, had voiced suspicions regarding his death which St. Lewis declined to divulge.

The witness, who also was a defendant in the trial, was confined in the Garfield county jail at Enid, several weeks ago, at his own request. He said he was afraid to remain at large. His health which was poor when he entered the jail, became rapidly worse, causing his removal to the Oklahoma county jail here. He was taken recently from the jail to the hospital where he died.

Man Smothers In Rockford Hotel

(Telegraph Special Service) Rockford, Jan. 27.—R. L. Clemens, aged 35, accountant in the employ of the Peat-Mirewick Mitchell Company of Chicago, was smothered in his room on the sixth floor of the new Faust hotel here early this morning. Occupants of adjoining rooms on the same floor detected the odor of smoke and informed the hotel employees. An investigation was launched and Clemens was found in an unconscious condition in his smoke filled room. A pulmonologist from the Rockford fire department was unable to restore life.

Clemens is believed to have fallen to sleep while smoking a cigarette which started a smoldering fire in the bed. He was sitting in a chair when discovered this morning about 1 o'clock. Clemens remained in the corridor of the hotel until a late hour last evening reading. He is survived by two daughters, Betty, aged 3, and Dorothy, aged 8, both in Chicago. Coroner Walter Julian will conduct an inquest into the death.

In Berlin, Vienna, Rome and Budapest it is not unusual to see a man enter a drawing-room and bestow as many as ten hand kisses before he sits down for a cup of tea.

BREAKDOWN OF ENFORCEMENT IS WHEELER THEME

Montana Democrat In A Bitter Attack On Govt. Agents

Washington, Jan. 27.—(UP)—A "complete breakdown" of prohibition enforcement because of political influence in the selection of enforcement agents was charged today by Senator Wheeler, dry Montana Democrat, as the floodgate which has been holding back prohibition debate in the Senate suddenly broke.

Wheeler charged the "fundamental fault with prohibition enforcement is that it has become a football." He suggested the Law Enforcement Commission call members of the Republican National Committee to ascertain how prohibition agents are selected.

The Montana Senator made his charges while discussing the transfer of Prohibition Administrator John F. Herbert from the Baltimore District to Montana and Idaho. He served notice that unless Herbert is removed from Montana he will call for an investigation of the administrator's record and ask the Justice Department to make public the report said to have been submitted by it to the Prohibition Bureau in regard to Herbert.

Wheeler said he had always felt that if prohibition had been handled properly in the first place there would have been "real enforcement" by this time, but that the administration of the Justice Department under Harry M. Daugherty had destroyed respect for the law.

"If the Law Enforcement Commission would go back and take the evidence disclosed during the investigation of the Justice Department under Daugherty, it would learn some of the reasons why enforcement has broken down."

"When we had the Department as it was at that time saturated with graft and corruption, it isn't surprising that such practices should go on among lesser agents."

"Because of this laxity of enforcement, graft and corruption there was brought about a wholesale disrespect for the law. Now enforcement has gotten entirely away from the enforcement officers."

Charged Corruption Wheeler said he was informed the Justice Department made an investigation of Herbert and his assistant at Baltimore, John J. Quinn and furnished the prohibition unit with charges against both, "showing they were guilty of corruption."

He said it was unfair to the Senators from Montana for Herbert to be transferred to that state and added that he could not understand it unless it was intended to "punish the state for electing two Democratic Senators."

"I suggest," Wheeler added, "that the crime commission call some of the members of the Republican National Committee to ascertain how these prohibition officers are appointed and by whom they are recommended."

Ex-Service Men To Name County Slate?

About 30 ex-service men from throughout the county gathered at the American Legion hall Sunday afternoon in what was reported to be a political gathering. Delegations were present from Compton, Amboy, Franklin Grove and other places throughout the county. The selection of a committee of ex-service men throughout the county, to draft a slate of county officers to be supported by ex-service men at the April primaries was one of the chief subjects of discussion. It was reported today that the ex-service men will throw their support to Gardner Cook of Steward, who secured his petitions from County Clerk Fred G. Dimick Saturday and has announced his candidacy for the office of sheriff of Lee county. Cook has served two terms as deputy in Steward and is an aspirant for a position as state highway officer at present. It was reported today that a complete ticket of county officers will be launched by the ex-service men. Arthur C. Handell of this city presided at the meeting.

G. W. Brewer Of Lee Center Died Sunday

(Telegraph Special Service) Amboy, Jan. 27.—George W. Brewer, an early pioneer of Lee county, passed away at his home at Lee Center Sunday evening at the age of 80 years, after a long illness. He was born in Lee county in Bradford township in 1848. Funeral services will be held at the Congregational church in Lee Center Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Frazee officiating and interment will be in Woodside cemetery.

Stranger Threw Acid In Young Lady's Face

Chicago, Jan. 27.—(AP)—A vial of acid was thrown into the face of Miss Bertha St. Clair last night by an elderly, well dressed man who escaped.

Miss St. Clair, a stenographer could give no better description of her assailant. She faces the prospect of disfigurement and possible loss of her eyesight.

OREGON MAN IS HOLDUP VICTIM EAST OF DIXON

Is Relieved Of $40 By Two Men: Second Attempt Failed

Frank Cleary of this city, who is employed at the Silicia plant south-west of Oregon, was the victim of a holdup Saturday evening about 7 o'clock on the route 2 paving near the top of the Cement plant hill. Mr. Cleary was driving to Dixon and suddenly observed a Hudson sedan, slowly backing out of a driveway on the paving, directly in front of him. To prevent a crash, he almost stopped his car when suddenly a man jumped on the running board and flourished a revolver in Cleary's face, ordering him to stop and step out.

Cleary complied with the order and a second man stepped up from behind him and relieved him of about $40. The man who flourished the revolver was described as being of medium height, wearing a mustache and glasses and a light muffer. After having obtained the money, the two strangers climbed into their car, a Hudson sedan and drove on east toward Grand Detour. Cleary notified the sheriff's office and descriptions were telephoned to several surrounding cities, but the pair made their escape.

Attempted Holdup

Three Freeport young men, driving out from Chicago, reported an attempted holdup on route 6 about two miles east of Dixon Saturday night about 11 o'clock. A large car passed them just west of Nachusa corners and continued on to about the Burkett school where it suddenly swung across the road. Fearing that they were about to be stopped and held up, the driver pulled around the machine and sped into Dixon, where the trio told of the attempted holdup at a filling station. Two men, they stated were standing at each end of the car when they drove by.

NEW POLITICAL CONTROVERSY IN NATION'S CAPITAL

Charge Of Card Index On Govt. Employees Is Denied

Washington, Jan. 27.—(UP)—A new political controversy, centering about the administration, stirred the national capital today.

Charges were made by Chairman J. P. Shouse of the Democratic National Committee, and denied immediately by Walter Newton, White House Secretary, that a menace to the nation's civil service system existed in an alleged White House card index survey of all appointed federal employees.

Shouse indicated the possibility the information might be used to endanger political jobs if the holder and the man responsible for his appointment, failed to do "his share in furthering the political fortunes of the President."

The statement followed a copyrighted article in the Washington Post, with a reproduction of the card questionnaire, asking how the employee was named, his salary, tenure of office, congressional district, etc.—information already in the records of each department and available for the President's use if wanted.

The White House said an index system however would place the records of tens of thousands of minor employees in the hands of Mr. Hoover's "political agent"—Newton, a former Congressman, Shouse said.

Called Untruth Newton countered with a formal statement declaring there was not "an item of truth nor basis of fact" in the charge. "In fact," he said, "neither the President nor I ever heard of the matter until it appeared in the press."

"It appears that for decades the regular White House staff in a routine way has kept a card index of presidential and other non-civil service employees. Eight months ago cards were sent out for the purpose of bringing that list down to date. No request was made as to any civil service employee."

"This list is of course kept current. I find on inquiry that 300 cards have been catalogued since last March."

"Several weeks ago this same Democratic propaganda bureau launched an attack on the President. It was so unfair as to invite condemnation with the result that the public has been free from their assaults for several weeks. This list is just as baseless as were the others."

Shouse's statement was accepted generally by observers here as an attempt to unearth an important issue for the November congressional elections. The Democratic committee, representing both wet and dry, has avoided the prohibition question and the London naval conference has not progressed enough to provide a tangible issue.

Former Resident Of Dixon Died Saturday

Mrs. Charles Cool received a message Sunday that her sister-in-law Mrs. Adolphus Robinson, died very suddenly Saturday evening at her home in Joliet, Ill. The funeral will be held Tuesday at 2 o'clock. No other particulars were given. The Robinsons are former Dixon residents, and have a number of friends here.

RING OF JEWEL THIEVES BROKEN UP IN CHICAGO

Twenty-Two 'Suspects are Rounded Up Early

Chicago, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Following a month of secret investigation, which included telephone wire tapping, police last night and early today rounded up 22 persons in a series of spectacular raids which they said may lead to the solution of jewel robberies totaling more than $100,000.

An Assistant State's Attorney, a policeman and several women were among the persons questioned. The Assistant State's Attorney, Harry H. Busch, was released on order of Patrick Roche, Chief Investigator for the State's Attorney, who said: "While we know from telephone conversations that Busch was associated with the gang there is insufficient evidence to hold him."

The policeman, Roche said, explained satisfactorily the linking of his name with the persons taken in the raids. He also was released.

Roche said he also had information the gang intended to rob a Detroit hotel tonight.

Found Arsenal The raids were led by Roche and Chief of Detectives John Stege. At one place they found what they termed a small arsenal. Sawed-off shotguns and revolvers were concealed in auto cushions equipped with flaps to permit easy access.

Thomas Abbott, reputed head of the ring, who also is accused of selling narcotics, was taken with his wife, Lillian.

One of the robberies which police said they expected to solve by the arrests was that of Charles M. Richter, president of the Consolidated Magazines Corporation, whose Gold Coast home was invaded January 6 by robbers who took $25,000 in gems. They held Richter, his wife and four servants at bay with guns during the dinner hour.

Six men were arrested following the robbery and later released. Police watched their movements closely. Among them were Abbott and Willie Francis, who were taken in the raids.

Assistant State's Attorney Busch denied any connection with the gang and said if his name was mentioned in telephone conversations it must have been in connection with cases he prosecuted.

Abandoned School House Distillery

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 27.—(UP)—An abandoned school house, where basic principles of good government and obedience to the constitution, were instilled in young minds, was revealed as a headquarters for a band of moonshiners here today.

Federal prohibition agents who swooped down on the building found two 150 gallon stills and more than 10,000 gallons mashed housed in the dilapidated structure.

No one was on the premises at the time of the raid and neither still was in operation. Continuing their search of the vicinity the agents found a "wash boiler" still of fifteen gallon capacity and arrested Cicendo Piccolotti.

McReynolds' Case Called In Court

William McReynolds, local Negro, went to trial in the Circuit Court this afternoon on a charge of assaulting Clarence Shults, night attendant at the Newman Brothers Riverview garage on the night of December 8 and with burglarizing the Claude Horton garage. Attorney H. A. Brooks was appearing for the defendant. It was expected that the selection of the jury and the opening statements of the defense and State's Attorney Mark C. Keller would occupy the entire afternoon and witnesses have been ordered to report at 9:30 in the morning when the trial will open before Judge Harry Edwards.

Funeral Of James Hoover Tomorrow

James Hoover passed away Friday January 24 after a long illness. He was born April 11, 1851 in Somerset county, Pa. When a young man he came to Franklin Grove where he resided until his death. He leaves to mourn his passing, his wife, one son and two daughters, Irvin Hoover, Mrs. Nora Seaman and Mrs. William E. Jones. Twelve grandchildren and ten great grandchildren also survive. Funeral services will be held at the home in Franklin Grove Tuesday at 1 o'clock with interment in Woodside cemetery near Lee Center.

Miss Sadie Moats Pneumonia Victim

Miss Sadie Moats passed away Saturday at 3 o'clock at the home of her brother, A. L. Moats, 119 Douglas avenue, pneumonia causing her death. A brief service was conducted from the Preston chapel at 12 o'clock today, the remains being taken to Mt. Morris, her former home, where services were conducted from the Brethren church with interment in the Silver Creek cemetery.

IN POLICE COURT

William Miller of this city was assessed a fine of $25 and costs this morning by Justice J. O. Shauls in police court on a charge of assault and battery. Mrs. Edith Hendrick charged Miller with having assaulted and beaten her Saturday night about 12 o'clock near the Vickery garage in the south east part of the city.

GOODS RETURNED

Judge William L. Leach in the County Court Saturday afternoon issued a court order directed to Sheriff Ward Miller in which the latter was instructed to turn over certain property which he had seized to satisfy executions. The executions were served on John O. Nelson, a former living north of Walnut in Lee county in favor of W. J. Fisher & Sons. A hearing has been pending in the county court for the past two weeks and Saturday Judge Leach ordered the sheriff to deliver the seized property to F. C. Bollman. Attorney George Fox of Walnut opposed the return of the property.

Six Men Blinded By Poison Alcohol

Gary, Ind., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Six men were found groping their way along a Calumet City street last night. They had been drinking alcohol, they told police. All may be permanently blinded, physicians declared, and the minds of three of them appeared to have been affected.

The one member of the group whom police found rational said the men had purchased the alcohol from a Hammond druggist, explaining that they wanted it to remove varnish.

Filipino Gangsters Threaten Americans

Manila, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Anti-Filipino riots in California which have caused wide-spread discussion in Manila today have brought threats against Americans. Authorities, however, gave prompt assurance that Americans were in no danger.

Police Chief C. E. Pitts announced precautions were being taken to guard cabarets and strategic points in the city where isolated attacks were possible against individuals but expressed confidence that there would be no outbreaks. Labor leaders joined in the assurance.

Bernhard Gast Is Called By Creator

Australia has "six original states." They are: New South Wales, Victoria, Queensland, Tasmania, South Australia and Western Australia.

HUNT BODIES OF LOST AVIATORS IN NORTHERN SIBERIA

Wrecked Plane, Sought For Weeks, Found In Deep Snow

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 27.—(UP)—Dog sled parties were to set out today for a point on the frozen coast of northern Siberia to hunt for the bodies of Lieut. Carl Ben Eielson and Mechanic Earl Borland, believed to be buried in deep snow near the wreckage of their airplane.

The plane in which the fliers left Teller, Alaska, November 9, enroute to aid the ice-bound fur ship Nanuk, was found by two pilots, Joe Crosson and Fred Gilliam, 90 miles south of the Nanuk.

Possibility that Eielson and Borland are alive was considered faint when their emergency rations were found intact in the plane's cabin, according to radio messages from Crosson.

W. E. Borland, father of one of the missing fliers, sounded the only note of confidence.

He said at his home here that if the rescue expedition did not find two sets of skis in the plane that the two aviators had made their way in safety from the wreck to some native settlement and would be found alive and well.

The message from Crosson and Gilliam, received by the father, read: "Buried In Deep Snow."

"Sorry to inform you, Ben Eielson plane totally wrecked about 90 miles from here. Plane buried in deep snow and could not locate bodies. Very evident Eielson and Borland killed instantly. Pilot's cockpit torn away from engine, which lies about 100 feet from cabin. Dispatching dog team to excavate around plane."

Crosson and Gilliam had made eight flights from the Nanuk in an effort to find some trace of Eielson and Borland.

The wrecked plane was sighted by Crosson about 12 miles from the coast line. The pilots had flown over the same territory before, but in heavy weather when visibility was poor.

Saturday reflected sun's rays on the smashed cabin of the Eielson plane attracted their attention.

Crosson's messages said that the wreck of the plane was scattered over an area of 100 feet, indicating Eielson crashed while in full flight.

Captain Olaf Swenson, master of the Nanuk, had over

MORE FAVORABLE MARKET FOR FARM PRODUCE PROMISE

The Department Of Agriculture Issues Statement

Washington, Jan. 27.—(AP)—The American farmer is advised by the Department of Agriculture that he may expect more favorable marketing credit conditions this year and a somewhat greater supply of labor at slightly lower wages, but is warned against imminent over production in several lines.

The department's annual farm outlook report, issued for publication today, forecast a lessened demand for farm products through the summer and fall, as compared with the same seasons of 1929, although an improved domestic market was predicted for the closing weeks of the year.

The forecast for 1930 listed more favorable farm mortgage financing conditions, no immediate change in the price of fertilizers an unchanged price level for farm machinery and less satisfactory production credit conditions than a year ago in most of the south.

Wheat prices were forecast as much the same as those previous through 1929 unless winter damage should prove severe or the spring acreage is reduced.

Cotton growers were warned against increased acreage, the report pointing out that for the last five years, with the exception of 1927, both acreage and production have been at a comparatively high level.

Dairymen were advised to cull their herds closely and send more heifers to slaughter in order to avoid a continued increase in dairy herds in 1931 and 1932. The general situation in the dairy industry was said to be "not as bad as would appear from present butter prices."

Hog prices were expected to average at least as high as in 1929 and possibly higher, while reduction of slaughter supplies was indicated, this probably partially offset by a decreased demand for hog products.

Russian Exile Is Sentenced To Death

Moscow, U. S. S. R., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Sentence of death and confiscation of all his property was pronounced today by the supreme court on Peter Miller-Mallis, representative in Germany of the Soviet Grain Trust, who refused recently to return to Russia after government summons.

He was accused of making an unfavorable contract on behalf of the government with a German firm. This is the first case where the government has applied its recent decree condemning to death as traitors all citizens of the Soviet Union abroad who fail to return to Russia when summoned.

Goddard had hoped to break the existing world's record for looping in a motorless plane.

While horrified spectators watched the falling craft, Goddard worked loose and jumped from the cockpit at a height of 150 feet. His parachute opened a few seconds too late to check his fall and he plunged into the waters of the Oakland Estuary. He was still alive when airport attaches reached him in a launch, but was pronounced dead from a broken neck on arrival at the Alameda hospital.

Library At Elmhurst College Is Burned

Elmhurst, Ill., Jan. 27.—(UP)—Students at Elmhurst College did their reference readings in temporary quarters today after fire swept through the Wilder Memorial Library yesterday resulting in damages estimated at several thousand dollars.

Students aided in the firemen in their battle with the flames by rescuing hundreds of valuable books from the library shelves. Steaming coffee was served the firemen, who fought the fire in near zero weather. A defective chimney was believed responsible for the blaze. The building was a landmark of the suburb, being erected over 60 years ago.

Kenneth MacLaren, Dixon high school student, suffered a concussion of the brain skiing at the Plum Hollow Country Club Sunday. His condition is not serious.

SHOT SECOND HUSBAND OF FORMER WIFE

Bloomington Man Held On Murder Charge In Venice, Ill.

Venice, Ill., Jan. 27.—(UP)—Ray T. French, 33, of Bloomington, is lodged in jail here facing murder charges following the death of his best friend, second husband of his former wife, and fellow railroad employee, Leroy F. Rudder, 32, also of Bloomington, who died from gunshot wounds in a Granite City hospital yesterday.

The shooting followed a heated argument in a hotel here, climaxing a bitter grudge of several months standing. French and Rudder had known each other for several years and were seen together frequently. Shortly after the death of Rudder's first wife, two years ago, which left him with two small children, French invited his friend to share his home with him.

As a result French found that his wife and Rudder had become enamored, they making no attempt to conceal their affection for one another, and finally French sued for divorce. Several days after the divorce was granted Rudder and French's former wife were quietly married at Bloomington. The two men did not meet until last Thursday. Threats passed between them and French was seen to draw a revolver and fire three shots at Rudder, each taking effect. French insists he shot as Rudder drew a knife but an exhaustive search by police fails to reveal the blade.

Organ Played First Time By Woman

Paris.—(AP)—A woman for the first time has played the great organ of Notre Dame cathedral, an instrument two centuries old, and played at Napoleon's coronation.
The woman really is a girl, Renee Nizan, 16 years old, but already a noted organist, often applauded at concerts.
The aged blind organist, Louis Vierne, listened while the girl manipulated the keys of five manuals with their 110 stops and brought music from the organ's 6,000 pipes.
Even during the days of the revolution, when Notre Dame was sacked and turned into a "Temple of Reason," with a ballet dancer receiving there as "Liberty," and later during the Commune, no woman so young as recorded ever touched the old organ.

To Gladden Them—Disabled Veterans
(From the Los Angeles Times)
Los Angeles
The loveliest gift that has ever come to the disabled veterans is the plan to be carried out in Pasadena—poppy seeds to be scattered by airplane all over the country that surrounds the veterans' home.
It is the most beautiful wild flower that grows in any land. With good rains, it will cover the landscape with a golden carpet.
We ought to restore the old Spanish-California name to this flower—"Dormidera"—the Drowsy One—because its petals fold themselves to sleep when the evening shadows fall.

Witnessed Rose Festival in Los Angeles
Mrs. Charles Whitebread has received word from her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Franks of this city who are spending the winter at Los Angeles and Pasadena, California, that they witnessed the beautiful Rose festival parade and football game at the Rose Bowl on New Year's day. The parade was very interesting to them. Mrs. Franks is a great lover of flowers. Both Mr. and Mrs. Franks are enjoying California very much and are visiting Mrs. Franks' brother, Sam Huggins and family, formerly of Dixon.

½ cup fat
1½ cups dark brown sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon ginger
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon mace
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup molasses
½ cup sour milk
4 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda.
Cream fat and sugar. Add other ingredients and shape into a roll 1½ inches in diameter. Chill 24 hours or longer. Use a sharp knife and cut off thin slices. Bake 3 inches apart on greased baking sheets.

Meat Pie
(Using leftovers)
4 tablespoons bacon fat
3 tablespoons chopped onions.
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
½ cup diced celery
1 cup diced, cooked meat
4 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk or meat stock
½ cup cooked diced carrots
Heat fat in a frying pan. When hot, add onions, peppers, celery and meat. Cook slowly, stirring constantly, until foods have become well browned. Add flour. Cook and brown. Add other ingredients. Boil 1 minute. Pour into a shallow buttered baking dish. Cover with the biscuit dough.

Biscuit Dough
2 cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons fat
1 egg
½ cup milk
Mix flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in fat. Add egg and slowly add milk. When a soft dough forms, pat it out on a floured board until ½ inch thick. Cut out with a biscuit cutter 1½ inches in diameter. Place biscuits side by side on top meat mixture. Bake 25 minutes in a moderate oven. Serve in dish in which baked.

Draw Picture Of The Perfect Child
New York, Jan. 27.—(UP)—Educators of Columbia University have drawn a picture of the perfect child. According to their ideas, some of the qualities of the perfect youngster of from two to six are:
Goes to school willingly.
Knows a funny story when he hears one.
Knocks down little girls who snatch his hat.
Hangs up his clothes without being told.
Sometimes pretends he is a fire engine or a bear.
Can lace his own shoes and tie a bow.
Says "please" and "thank you" without urging.
Voluntarily shakes hands if he likes your looks.
Accepts punishment with resentment.
Can blow his own nose.

Lee Lambert Victim Happy Surprise Saturday
Saturday night, on his 40th birthday, Lee Lambert was induced by Mrs. Lee Lambert to drive her, her mother, Mrs. John Warner and their son, Nelson Lambert, down town for their Saturday night trading.
Here, by a pre-arranged scheme they received a telephone call, and were requested by a certain Mrs. Charles Hey, known to him as a great reader, to bring her a desired book, the Hey car being out of order.
By this time Lee claims, though it is denied, that he had become suspicious.
Be this as it may, he drove to the Hey residence with the book and into the trap set for him, and where nine co-conspirators lay in wait for him, crowded in the darkest corners of the little-lighted house, secure from the intense cold and hidden from their victim.
Parking and passing other hidden cars, which he now claims he saw, he was met at the back door by Mrs. Hey, and on being pressed to enter, and come forward in the dark, he did become suspicious, but the latch had clicked behind him, and he was soon the target of many well aimed shots from the high five gang that quickly surrounded him and he fell, by no means fatally wounded by the business of showing the bunch what his forty years practice had done for him in shooting high five.
When the smoke cleared away it was found he had brought down five. The next three, Mrs. Haynes, Mrs. Gehant and Mr. Brooks tied at four. Mr. Lambert refused to take first prize in addition to his birthday gift, and it was agreed that he and the three tied should play off the tie. This resulted in Mrs. Haynes getting first, Lee, second and Brooks, the booby.
Then Mr. Hey took this last shot at Lee:
To Lee, 40th birthday:
We are glad to have you here tonight. For you'll know what to do. If you won't go you're here to show And help us start it too.
We always felt that you were wise It truly has been said That brains and hair they never will share And grow from the same head.
You always were so faithful And ready to help us too, So we will say on your birthday, We're glad this is for you.
Forty years have now gone by So we will hope and pray That you will enjoy without alloy Yet many more such days.
No one objected to the party of thirteen. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Haynes, Mr. and Mrs. X. F. Gehant, Mrs. John Warner, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Lambert and Nelson Lambert, A. F. Brooks, bachelor, and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hey who entertained.
After the games the ladies produced refreshments, which were heartily received, lots of rich chicken and lettuce sandwiches, fruit salad, cakes, pickles, fruit, coffee and grape juice for the arduous job of getting home with cars that refused to start, and with frozen radiators, which with the midnight breakup kept most of the party out well into the morning hours.

"Mound Builders of Illinois," Subject Discussed at Club

"Mound Builders of Illinois," was the subject upon which Mrs. Lee J. Smith of Mendota talked to the Dixon Woman's Club at their Saturday meeting.

Mrs. Smith's talk was exceptionally interesting and consisted of a general outline of historical mounds being found in different parts of the country and of the one found in Lewiston, Ill., where a great deal of research work is being carried on at the present time. Photographs taken of some of these discoveries were shown and explained by Mrs. Smith which added greatly to the interest of the audience.

Dainty refreshments were served during the social hour by the hostesses in charge, Mesdames Pitcher, Bremer, Drach, Lund, May, Natress, Buck, Wadsworth, Swarthout, Miss Stoner.

The Home Library—How to Build It—How to Use It, was explained by the Literature Dept. at a previous date. Special attention has been called to the contest being held in regard to the "Home Library." This contest is a Federation project and all club members are eligible to take part in it. Rules are follows:
1. The essay must not exceed two thousand words in length and should be typed is possible.
2. The photograph of the home library must be six inches wide or larger, so as to be available for reproduction.
3. The name of the club woman, her home address and the name of the club to which she belongs must accompany the photograph and essay.
4. Entries to be sent to Mrs. H. C. McCahan, 515 N. Mulnix, Kirksville, Mo., before March 15, 1930.

Northwestern Drama artists will present a play at the meeting of the club to be held Friday evening, February 7th in place of the Saturday meeting. Further announcements will be made later in regard to tickets, etc.

BIG BUSINESS TO DICTATE CHICAGO, COOK CO. FINANCES

"Take It Or Leave It" Committee Says To City Council

officials cannot submit to the dictates of outsiders in the conduct of governmental business.

The Mayor himself became a pamphleteer for the moment and addressed a broadside to the taxpayers, reiterating his charges that the whole situation is the fault of "reformers" who "put over" a reassessment.

Strawn answered by saying Thompson was "playing demagogue." Attacks Mayor.

William Malone, State Tax Commissioner who has been trying to bring order out of chaos, said that "lacking a King George to bluff on the nose, the Mayor is trying to cloud the situation as to the real cause of the financial crisis."

Wednesday probably will be shown down day for the governments. On that day Strawn returns from a trip to Washington on private business.

Strawn said his committee probably would announce a financial plan "together with a far reaching legislative program for permanent reorganization of the city finances on a business-like basis."

As each day passes another $50,000 in interest is charged against taxpayers and city institutions stretch their credit a little nearer the limit.

Food shortages at the tuberculosis hospital were reported today and the coal supply has been low for a week. Police, firemen, teachers and county employes stretched their December pay checks a little farther or went to loan sharks.

Caldwell and coal dealers who supply the schools were scheduled to meet today. The schools' unpaid coal bill has grown to $500,000 and the dealers are talking of cutting off the supply.

Caldwell nominated James Simpson, head of Marshall, Field & Company, as chairman. Simpson, already a member of the Strawn committee, refused to comment.

Caldwell gave as his reason for the "ouster" committee that public officials "never will cooperate with the Strawn committee."

However, the county and drainage officials have pledged cooperation with the Strawn group and the council, through one of its spokesmen also indicated its cooperation.

Alderman John Clark, chairman of the Council Finance committee, said he believed the council would pledge the economy that the committee demands.

"The Strawn committee holds the purse strings," Clark said. "It is a case of sink or swim. After all if the committee furnishes the money it ought to have something to say about how it is spent. The banks will lend no money so I think the city will cooperate."

Alderman Oscar Nelson, Mayor Thompson's floorleader in the council, bristled at the Strawn committee's demands and said: "Elected

TARIFF BATTLE CLOSING WHILE SENATORS TALK
The Fight Over Prohibition Gaining in Intensity

BY PAUL R. MALLON
United Press Staff Correspondent
Washington, Jan. 27.—(UP)—The tariff battle is closing and the prohibition controversy is being prepared for a public opening in Congress this week.

Work of revising the tariff measure framed by the Senate Finance committee has been completed by the Senate. About 200 amendments prepared by individual Senators are still to be considered but most of these will require little debate and some will not be pressed to a vote.

Reconsideration of the sugar schedule has been demanded and a fight is expected over removal of the literary censorship by customs agents.

Leaders believe it possible to conclude action on the entire measure this week, however, and they are confident it will require no more than 10 days.

They are equally optimistic over the chances of ironing out differences with the House in conference and predict the measure will be on its way to the White House before spring.

Exit of the tariff will signify the entry of prohibition as the major item of controversy, the debate thus far having been confined to sallies by wets on the floor of the House and a few House committee hearings.

THE BEAUTY WE LOST.

An eastern art museum the other day spent $1000 to acquire the last of the oldtime American clipper ships.

That bit of news got dismissed with a brief paragraph. Yet a great deal could be written on it; poems, romantic tales of bygone days and bygone men, melancholy essays on vanished glories and outworn beauties.

We have come a long way, in one direction or another, since the day when the clipper ship was a living reality. Our age is altogether unlike the age that built those fabulous old ships. We have a different outlook on life, a whole new set of standards. The clipper ship, magnificent creation that it was, is as out of date as the Phoenician galley; yet, because it was magnificent, a thing for poetry and romance, we put the last surviving specimen under the wing of an art museum, and feel a pang at the thought that that is all it is good for.

Why should we be so stirred by this one additional indication that that old age is gone forever? We are busy and fairly prosperous and at least relatively happy. Our world wags quite smoothly, taking one thing with another. Why should the phantom vessels of 75 years ago move us to idle day-dreams?

Perhaps it is because our modern world is just a little bit short of beauty. For the clipper ship, above everything else, was beautiful. It was, in its way, as breath-taking a creation as a great painting, or a cathedral. One of the most lovely bits of prose in English is Richard Henry Dana's description of a full-rigged ship under all sail. Overseas merchandising, once upon a time, was a trade in which an artist might engage; not a business of rusty steamers and clanking machinery, as it is today.

We miss that sort of thing more than we know. We are not lucky enough to be carrying on the work of daily life with beautiful tools. Discarding the clipper for the steamer we have saved time and gained profits—and lose something very precious. What museum of the future will ever want to save a 1929 oil tanker or cattle boat?

Yet we may console ourselves. The clipper ship, after all, was built to be efficient and useful, not to be beautiful. It came into existence as a money-maker. The clumsy, sawed-off ships of the 18th century gave way to it, not because marine architects wanted to produce beauty, but because they wanted to produce speed and make money.

They were, in other words, moved by the same motives that move us. And there is just a chance—a chance worth clinging to—that our own age, likewise, striving to produce the utmost in utility, will, in the end, also produce supreme beauty.

Already there are indications. A mail plane, soaring through the sky, is a thing to lift up one's heart. Perhaps, in the course of years, we too shall be making cargo-carriers that are worthy to stand beside the clippers of a lost century.

OUR POLITICAL GROUPINGS.

The editor of Collier's Magazine sat down the other day to find out how many political parties we really have in the United States today. He made out a list something like this:

Progressive Republicans, Grundy Republicans, the Larger-Minded Republican, the Hoover Republicans, the Southern Democrats, the Al Smith Democrats, the Western Progressive Democrats, the Democratic-Progress-Republican Coalition Party—

And then he quit in despair.

Probably you can think of three or four more classifications; and the matter is complicated by the fact that some belong to two or three groupings at once.

The whole situation emphasizes anew our need for a new political alignment. If the present chaotic situation in the Senate helps to bring such a thing about we shall all be better off.

The average man doesn't know enough about women's clothes, says a magazine writer. Well, all he needs to know is the price.

The new mayor of an Indiana town had a new lock put on each door in the city hall. Rather decent of his predecessor to leave the doors.

According to last reports published in the Huron County (Mich.) Tribune, Mrs. Dan MacDonald was doing as well as could be expected under the care of Dr. Holdship. We hope Mrs. Dan overcame the handicap.

The president of Harvard suggests only one football game for each team annually. That might help to enforce prohibition, too.

A San Francisco waitress was robbed of rings worth $1250. What in the world was a waitress doing with 12,500 rings?

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The bumble bee buzzed very loud and scared the little Tiny crowd. It kept on getting nearer as its buzzing song was sung. All of the Tinnies wondered what would happen now. As like as not they figured they'd be captured by the bee and be stung. "Hey! Peddle faster," Coppy cried. "This isn't just a pleasure ride. There's trouble right behind us and we'd better pick up speed. The bee looks hungry as can be. I hope he doesn't pick on me. I wish we had a swatter. That's the thing we really need."

"I'd swat that bee. 'Twould serve him right. I'll bet he'd disappear from sight. It seems a shame we can't have fun, without such scares as this. We go along, mid heaps of fun, and do not bother anyone, but even so it always seems that something goes amiss."

"Buzz! Buzz!" The bee came closer still and gave the bunch an other thrill. "Gee! Chase him off," poor Clowny cried. "He's right close to my neck. I know his stinger's very thin, but if it's pushed into my skin, 'twill make me almost frightened stiff. I know I'll be a wreck."

Just then a flower rose from the ground, held up its head and looked around. It saw the frightened Tinnies with the great big bee nearby. Then Scouty shouted, "My, look out! The bee will sting you, too, no doubt." "He can't," exclaimed the pretty flower. "I'm sure he wouldn't try."

And then the flower turned to the bee and said, "Now, listen here to me. You let the Tinnies alone. They are not hurting you. If you are bad and start a fuss, no honey will you get from us. To sting that bunch would be a very silly thing to do."

(The big bee becomes friendly in the next story.)

Daily Health Talk

By Solomon Strouse, M. D., Chicago, Illinois.

(This series of articles is prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial Institute, which is organized to perpetuate the life work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. The headquarters of the Institute are at 1331 G Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.)

In the treatment of obesity only a few essential fundamental facts are necessary. The first is that overweight represents the surplus of energy taken into the body as food over the amount spent by the body in its daily living. Every machine must use up a given amount of energy to do a given job and this energy must be supplied from the outside. The human body acts as an engine and must receive fuel to burn up its work. But in one important respect the human body differs from an ordinary engine; if fuel is lacking from the outside the body makes up this deficiency by burning up itself; but if there is extra fuel that is not burnt up it is laid down as fat.

It follows then quite naturally that the question of reduction of body weight in fat people resolves itself into changing the balance between intake and expense of energy. This can be done in one of three ways:

- (a) reducing the intake,
- (b) increasing the expense, or
- (c) both. As a matter of fact all sane methods of reduction are based on this principle. The simplest method of reducing intake is to cut down on total consumption of calories. Anyone can be given a food list showing caloric values and can reduce his own intake.

There is no need for any faddist procedures. There is not a single one that has a specific virtue beyond the fact that it is based on a low total caloric intake. Many of them are not without considerable danger; some are so low in calories as to mean virtual starvation, and certainly not all persons can stand starvation. Some are "unbalanced" in their proportions of food stuffs and such diets may cause trouble to the kidneys or other vital organs. Many persons should have reduction diets adjusted to their particular needs and not infrequently they encounter serious difficulty if they are "mass" diet, such as the so-called eighteen day diet, or nothing but a single article of food. These diets may be perfectly harmless to ninety-five percent of individuals, but you may be among the unfortunate five.

Don't take up a suggested reducing diet because it is easier to do than to think for yourself. Reduce intake to match energy expended; increase activity to use up what you eat; or see a doctor.

New Flying Rules As Safety Measure

Washington, Jan. 25—(AP)—Changes in the air commerce regulations to require planes carrying passengers for hire to maintain an altitude of at least 500 feet while in flight or to land when unable to do so were promulgated today by the Department of Commerce.

The new rules were issued as a result of the crash near Oceanside, Calif., recently, in which sixteen persons were killed.

Clarence M. Young, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics, in announcing the amendment, said preliminary reports received regarding the crash indicated the necessity for such a minimum altitude instead of the 300 feet formerly required. He added that it would be an exceedingly important safeguard in future operations.

The new requirement gives a pilot but one alternative in the event he is forced to descend below the 500 foot level. He must land at the nearest field or any other suitable area.

ERRORGRAMS

Today's Scrambled Word

FARCEISSIC

All people, especially ball players, make them.

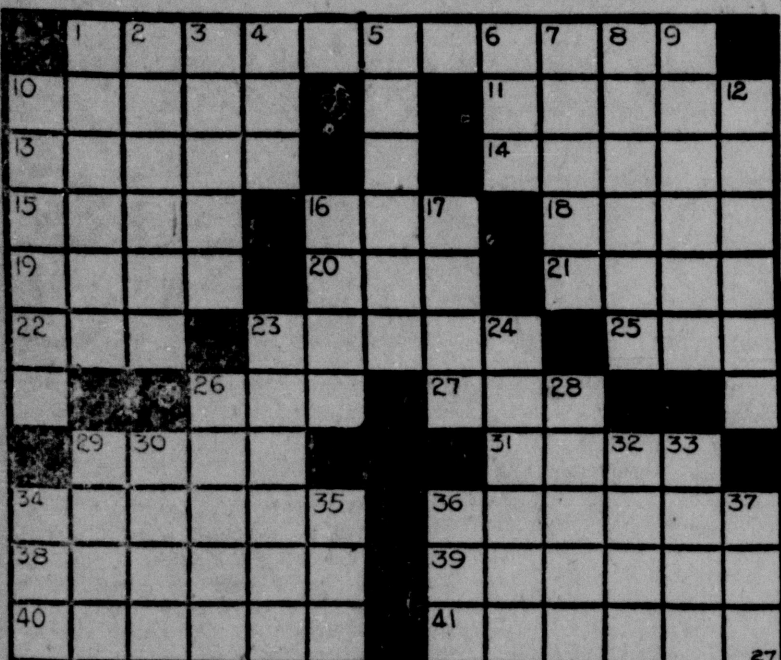

(Copyright, 1930, NEA Service, Inc.)

There are at least four mistakes in the above picture. They may pertain to grammar, history, etiquette, drawing or whatnot. See if you can find them. Then look at the scrambled word below—and unscramble it, by switching the letters around. Grade yourself 20 for each of the mistakes you find, and 20 for the word if you unscramble it. Tomorrow we'll explain the mistakes and tell you the word. Then you can see how near a hundred you bat.

SATURDAY'S CORRECTIONS

(1) Molars, in the girl's conversation, is spelled incorrectly. (2) Molars are in the back of the jaw, instead of the front. (3) A dentist's jacket does not button both over the shoulder and down the front. (4) The water pipe, in the foreground, should be tipped over the glass instead of away from it. (5) The scrambled word is REPRESENTATIVES.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Rash Romance

© 1930 by NEA Service Inc. by LAURA LOU BROOKMAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

JUDITH CAMERON, typist in a New York publishing house, marries ARTHUR KNIGHT, executive of the firm. Knight is a widower with a daughter, TONY, 18, in Paris, and a son JUNIOR, 16, at school.

A blissful honeymoon in Bermuda is interrupted by a cablegram that Tony is on her way to America. Judith and Arthur sail to meet her. When Knight brings his daughter home, the girl ignores her stepmother. Later, she tells Judith she must leave the home Knight overhauling forces Tony to apologize.

The girl spends much of her time with MIKEY MORTIMER, rival amusement-seeker, whom she met in Paris. As duty and a state of armed neutrality exists between Tony and Judith.

ANDY CRAIG, a young man Knight has helped through college, calls on Tony. Craig is to be married in the legal department of the publishing house. He has in fact Tony for years.

Judith encounters Craig unexpectedly. She is annoyed at her embarrassment.

Arthur suggests Judith should have the house redecorated. Craig calls frequently and one evening when Tony refuses to accompany him to a dog show, Judith goes.

Tony left alone with her father, tells him of Judith and not her own whom Craig comes to the house to see. Knight denies this angrily.

Tony surprises Judith by asking her to have lunch in town with her next day. Judith keeps the appointment and is met by Andy Craig, who explains Tony asked him to meet her. The two are together when Tony arrives half an hour later with her father.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXII

IT WAS one of those situations which seem so simple and easy to explain but which in reality often cause the most difficulty.

Andy Craig had risen smiling and looked as though he were trying to mend a bad situation.

"Well," he said, "Tony—Mr. Knight, this is a surprise."

"Yes, isn't it?" giggled Tony Knight. "And—my goodness! look at Judith's cheeks! why! Don't tell me you haven't been up to see her yet two Oh, but it's become Judith! Wasn't it sweet of father to leave his stuffy old office and come off to lunch with me? But I never dreamed of finding you two here—"

Arthur Knight had not spoken before Judith could get in a quick word of defense against the younger girl's implications her husband said:

"Hello, Judith. How're you, Craig? Tony and I seem to have interrupted a little party here. You don't mind it we join you?"

"Why, certainly not. Here hadn't we all better move to a larger table?"

Judith arose and the others followed.

"So you got here at last," Craig said to Tony. "We were beginning to think you weren't coming."

"You thought I wasn't coming?" cooed Tony. "Don't be silly, dearie! You weren't thinking any thing of the sort. Andy Craig. You were staring into Judith's eyes and I'll bet you were making love to her, too. Was he, Judith?"

Inwardly Judith was raging, but the pink flush had died in her cheeks and she had regained her composure. She was turning at herself for having fallen so easily a victim to Tony Knight's scheming. Even now Judith did not understand the significance of the plot. She was angry at Arthur for a moment his eyes had met hers and she had certainly read accusation in that glance.

WITHOUT allowing her a word of explanation Arthur seemed to have convicted her of coming to this place for lunch with Andy Craig. As though there were any thing so very dreadful about that, even if she had done it!

The words which she set down were: "Dear Phil . . ."

So she answered Tony sarcastically:

"Oh, yes. Of course Andy was making love to me. He was beginning to quote the balcony scene from 'Romeo and Juliet.' Most unfortunate that you should have interrupted."

Craig laughed shortly. He was uncomfortably aware of the unrest in the atmosphere.

"Don't you believe her," he said, addressing himself to Arthur Knight. "I believe I've succeeded in making your daughter jealous at last. Hurrah!"

Then Tony leaned back in her chair and glanced from one face to another about the table.

"Oh, you naughty, naughty dears, you!" she said, indicating Judith and Andy with a nod. "Did you think that you would just slip off by yourselves and have a quiet little lunch?"

She laughed in sly, bantering tone. "I know what they'll tell us, father," she continued. "They're going to tell you, both of them, that they were waiting for me to come and join the party. A very nice alibi, my dears, but I've spoiled it for you by thinking of it first."

"Say, Tony, what is this—a farce?"

"Now, must Andy. Mustn't show temper. Must be nice, good little boy cause then Tony's going to let you take her to see the movies to-night."

"But look here, Mr. Knight. You didn't think—"

"Oh, no. Of course not," Arthur claimed him. "I know Tony's only talking nonsense."

Judith felt there was nothing she could contribute to this horrible luncheon.

The waitress brought soup and the dish of fruit which Judith had ordered. There was a long period of delay following this first course.

Knight looked at his watch.

"Great Scott! Nearly two o'clock. I can't waste all afternoon in this damned place. Tony! What on earth did you ever bring me here for? Listen—excuse me, will you, Judith. Andy? I'm going out and get some real food. Here—"

(he tossed a bill down on the table) "This ought to cover the check. I'll tell the waitress I couldn't wait."

Judith would not have stopped him if she could.

AT length the luncheon was served and eaten. Tony had bled on constantly, very cheerfully and gay. Andy Craig had little to say and Judith, of the three, was quietest.

"Are you going to drive back with me, Tony?" she asked as the last dishes were being removed.

"Like to," the girl responded carelessly, "but I've got my own car outside and I'm picking up Lois and Jamie at three o'clock. By the way, Andy, I'm having dinner in town tonight but you can call for me at the house at 8:30."

Craig agreed to be there. He was agitated over the delay and already late to report to work. At last all three arose and walked toward the entrance.

Bert was waiting at the curb in the big car.

"Goodby, Judith called as she stepped into the limousine. Tony and Andy were to walk down the block. They turned, smiled and Tony even waved a gay signal of farewell.

WHITE SOX FANS EXPECT BUSH TO PUT TEAM IN RACE

New Manager Has Good Material And He'll Be The Boss

By BERT DEMBY
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 Chicago, Jan. 27.—(UP)—Baseball talk, and there's been plenty of it in Chicago since Joe McCarthy took over the Managerial reins of the Cubs, centered on Donie Bush, the White Sox's new pilot, today.
 Those fans who have been going out to the south side for years hoping their favorites might get somewhere in the American League pennant race have a hunch that Bush is the man who is going to take Charles Comiskey's hirelings and make a ball club out of them.
 There's justification for that optimism despite the fact Bush will have practically the same material to work with this year that Ray Schalk and Lena Blackburne attempted to mould into a ball club last season.
 Donie Will Be Boss
 Donie will be boss on the south side. He informed the world of that when he came to Chicago a few days ago to talk things over with the White Sox officials. He makes no bones about being manager de facto. He showed that when he led the Pittsburgh Pirates to the National League championship and then benched Hazen Cuyler, his star outfielder, while his charges dropped four straight to the Yankees in the world series. Donie came in for much criticism, but the remnants of the crowd meant little to him.
 Donie has an idea the White Sox haven't played within a mile of their potentialities. He thinks he has a pitching staff good enough for a championship team. And when one considers Lyons, Thomas, Faber, McKain and Henry the hurling corps stacks up with the best of them. Then there's a young fellow, Vic Fraser, whom Bush thinks will be a "hell of a pitcher."
 Lyons and Thomas are as good as they come and Fraser appears to have another season left in his aged arm. McKain looks like a real threat with added experience and if Fraser comes through Donie will have no worry on that score.
 Doesn't Fear Shires
 As for C. Arthur (The Great) Shires, Donie anticipates no trouble. Bush won a few flistic arguments himself in his day as a player. If Shires attempts to treat the new leader as he did Blackburne, he's going to bump up against a man who used to argue with Ty Cobb, a fellow who never was considered a slouch at expressing his belief. Shires has announced that he will play his head off for his new boss and "show the fans how first basing should be done."
 There's only one weak gap to fill, in Bush's estimate. That's the catching job. Moe Berg, a former infield, heads the Sox receiving staff. He is a fair receiver but there are no relief men.
 Smead Jolly, the boy who has been burning them up on the Pacific Coast is expected to bolster the Sox outfield. Jolly Bush believes, "will hit well over 300 in our league."
 Watwood, Reynolds and Hoffman form a fleet trio of gardeners. They are none too potent with the stick but Bush has laid plans to remedy that. If Jolly comes through, his outfield problem is solved.
 For his infield, Bush will have the great Shires at first, Willie Kamm at third, Bill Cissel at short, and Hunsfeld at second.

Carnera To Fight In Chicago Friday
 Chicago, Jan. 27.—(UP)—Primo Carnera, Italy's giant who aspires to the heavyweight championship of the world, began training here today for his second American match—a scheduled ten round go with Elzear Rioux of Canada next Friday night.
 Carnera's 270 pounds and size 16 gunboats have created new interest among boxing fans here and the 23,000 seats in the Chicago Stadium are almost certain to be filled for the contest.
 The Italian, who used up some 100 seconds to knock out Big Boy Peterson in his American debut, is a heavy favorite over the Canadian who was neatly shellacked by Hein Mueller, German importation, here recently.
Cantillon, Pioneer Of Baseball, Dying
 Louisville, Ky., Jan. 27.—(UP)—Joe Cantillon, one of baseball's pioneers, was reported near death at his winter home at Hickman, Ky., today.
 Friends of the veteran manager and umpire were informed Cantillon suffered a second stroke of paralysis a few days ago and probably would not recover. Reports received here said a Catholic priest had been summoned to administer the last rites of the church.
 Cantillon has season was supervisor of umpires in the American Association. He broke into baseball in 1884 with Green Bay, Wis.
